

Dane County Community Resource Guide

The attached list provides information about community resources in Dane County that may be helpful to individuals and families who are coping with progressive memory loss, Alzheimer's disease, or related dementias. Due to the changing nature of service agencies, this list may not be comprehensive. Although the Alzheimer's & Dementia Alliance does not endorse or promote one agency over another, we are available to help families identify those services which might best meet the individual's needs and circumstances.

If you have questions or need more information about resources available in our nine county service area, please call our Helpline at 1-888-308-6251.

This resource guide will be updated periodically on our website: www.alzwisc.org

Alzheimer's & Dementia Alliance

The Alzheimer's & Dementia Alliance of Wisconsin (ADAW) provides support and education in south central Wisconsin for individuals and families living with dementia as well as for professional service providers. Our organization can be a guide for people affected by Alzheimer's disease and other dementias as well as their families as they learn about the disease, plan for the future, and cope with day-to-day challenges. The ADAW also advocates on the state level about matters that affect dementia-related research and legislation. Our services include:

- Helpline: 608-232-3400 or 888-308-6251
- Family consultations
- Caregiver support groups
- Early-stage support group
- www.alzwisc.org
- Family & professional training workshops
- Quarterly newsletter & email newsletters
- Resource library
- Public policy advocacy
- Provision of information and resources

As an independent, nonprofit organization, 100% of the donations we receive remain in Wisconsin and are tax-deductible.

What is Dementia?

Dementia is a loss of intellectual functions (such as thinking, remembering and reasoning) that is severe enough to interfere with a person's everyday life. Symptoms may include short-term memory loss, inability to think problems through or complete tasks, confusion, difficulty concentrating, and behavior changes.

Some disorders that can cause dementia include:

Alzheimer's disease

Vascular disease

Lewy Body dementia

Huntington's disease

Pick's disease

Creutzfeldt-Jakob disease

Parkinson's disease

Other conditions that may cause or mimic dementia include depression, brain tumors, nutritional deficiencies, head injuries, hydrocephalus, infections (AIDS, meningitis, syphilis), thyroid problems and drug reactions.

Dementia is not a part of normal aging.

What is Alzheimer's Disease?

Alzheimer's disease is the most common cause of dementia, affecting an estimated 5.4 million Americans, including more than 110,000 in Wisconsin. Alzheimer's disease is a progressive, degenerative disease that attacks the brain and results in impaired memory, thinking and behavior.

There are currently four drugs prescribed to treat the symptoms of Alzheimer's disease. In some people, these medications may improve daily life by enhancing memory and cognitive ability or by slowing the progression of Alzheimer's symptoms. Early diagnosis is very important to maximize the effect of available treatment.

10 Warning Signs of Alzheimer's Disease

1. Memory Loss: frequently forgetting important dates, events, conversations, or phone numbers; not remembering them later. Repeating oneself in conversation.
2. Difficulty performing familiar tasks: forgetting ingredients in recipes, less able to balance a checkbook or pay bills, more difficulty reading maps, operating equipment.
3. Problems with language: forgetting simple words, substituting unusual words, speaking in generalities to avoid the need to recall specific terms and details.
4. Disorientation to time and place: getting lost in familiar places, not knowing where one is, not knowing the time of day, day of week, month or year.
5. Poor or decreased judgment: dressing inappropriately, unable to set limits on purchases, giving away unusually large amounts of money.
6. Problems with abstract thinking: forgetting how to use numbers, difficulty with reading and reasoning.
7. Misplacing things: putting things in unusual places like firewood in the clothes dryer or a purse in the refrigerator, or forgetting where things are usually kept.
8. Changes in mood or behavior: rapid mood swings, from calm to tears to anger, for no apparent reason.
9. Changes in personality: doing or saying things that are out of character, abnormal confusion, suspicion, or fearfulness.
10. Loss of initiative: more passive, sleeping more than usual or withdrawing from usual hobbies, activities, and social situations.

If you recognize some of these warning signs in yourself or a loved one, please see your primary doctor. You may also wish to contact a memory diagnostic clinic for a more thorough evaluation. There are also many conditions that can cause dementia-like symptoms that are reversible if a treatable cause is found. Early diagnosis of Alzheimer's disease or other disorders causing dementia is an important step in getting appropriate treatment, care and support services.

MEMORY DIAGNOSTIC CLINICS

Memory diagnostic clinics offer a comprehensive, team approach to assessment, diagnosis and treatment. The staff at the memory diagnostic clinics is trained to identify the reason you or your loved one are experiencing memory loss or confusion. If you have Medicare, 80% of the cost of the evaluation should be reimbursed and most supplemental insurance policies should pay for the additional 20%. The results of the evaluation will be shared with your primary physician for continued follow-up. For more information, contact:

SUPPORT GROUPS

At support groups, family caregivers come together to learn new information; support one another, and share caregiving tips, experiences, and ideas. Most meet monthly. Many are specifically for those caring for loved ones with memory loss or dementia.

Contact the Alzheimer’s & Dementia Alliance at 608-232-3400 or 1-888-308-6251 for a list of support groups in your area.

LEGAL SERVICES

Legal and financial planning should begin as soon as possible. Planning includes reviewing financial and long-term care resources and options, and completing legal documents that will authorize another person to make health care and financial decisions on the affected person's behalf when it becomes necessary. If planning is done early, the person with the disease can actively participate in making the necessary arrangements. It is often a good idea to consult with an attorney who specializes in elder law. A benefit specialist can also guide you in this process.

FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE

- Benefit Specialist Program

Benefit Specialists provide free information, assistance and advocacy to residents age 60 and older. Services range from providing information about eligibility criteria and help in applying for a wide range of benefits, to appealing application denials, terminations or reductions in benefits. Benefit Specialists receive in-depth, on-going training in the areas of benefit and entitlement programs and other issues affecting older adults, including Medicare, Medical Assistance, Social Security, Supplemental Security Income (SSI), Food Stamps, housing, the Community Options Program (COP), and more. An attorney provides supervision and support to Benefit Specialists and works closely with them to ensure high-quality advocacy and representation of older WI residents.

- Alzheimer's Family & Caregiver Support Program (AFCSP)

The Alzheimer's Family Caregiver Support Program is designed to support families caring for a person with Alzheimer's disease or other irreversible dementia in their home. Limited funds can be used to purchase services such as in-home respite, home delivered meals, adult day care, personal care, or equipment and supplies needed for care.

For information on how to access AFCSP, call the Alzheimer's & Dementia Alliance at 608-232-3400 or 888-308-6251

- Community Options Program (COP)

The Community Options Program is a coordinated system of services aimed at assisting people who are elderly or disabled to remain in their own homes. Persons who appear to be at risk of entering a nursing home are eligible to receive a COP assessment and a service plan at no cost. Cost for COP services is determined on a case-by-case basis depending on the income, assets and expenditures of the individual needing services. Some people will pay for all or part of the services received; others may have all of their services paid for by COP. The cost will be determined before services are provided, so that the individual can decide whether to accept services or not. Some people may have to have their names put on a waiting list due to limited funding.

To apply for COP or for additional information, contact:

EMERGENCY RESPONSE SERVICES

- MedicAlert® + Alzheimer's Association Safe Return®

MedicAlert® + Alzheimer's Association Safe Return® is a 24-hour nationwide emergency response service for individuals with Alzheimer's disease or a related dementia who are at risk of becoming lost. If someone enrolled in the program is reported missing, essential information is faxed to local law enforcement agencies to initiate a search. If a concerned citizen finds the missing person, the person's ID jewelry (bracelet or necklace) provides a toll-free number to call for help.

MedicAlert® + Alzheimer's Association Safe Return® then notifies the missing person's contacts and makes sure the person is safely returned home. To obtain more information or an application, call 1-888-572-8566.

- Project Lifesaver

The Project Lifesaver Program uses a locator system to help find a person with special needs, such as a person with memory loss or dementia, who is at high risk of becoming lost. It includes a special watch-like plastic bracelet worn on the wrist or ankle that includes a transmitter and batteries. If the person becomes lost or missing, the Dane County Sheriff's Department will activate a trained team to find the person using a portable tracking device. The signal range of the portable tracking device is ½ to 1 mile on the ground and up to 7 miles from the air. It is not deterred by buildings. Participants must live in Dane County and will be selected on a case by case basis. There is no cost for this program – funding is from donations.

For more information, call 608-849-2661.

TRANSPORTATION

The Alzheimer's & Dementia Alliance has a list of transportation options available, and your local senior center or outreach office can provide further assistance in accessing these services.

Dane County Human Services has information about transportation needs including:

- Information for adults age 60 or over who would like to take part in trips to grocery stores, nutrition sites and social activities throughout Dane County
- Information for adults age 60 or over who need someone to drive them to various medical facilities in Dane County
- General information and referral to appropriate transportation resources.

Contact: Dane County Human Services for the Older Adult Transportation Assistance Program: 608-242-6486 and/or the Caregiver Transportation Assistance Program: 608-224-3668.

NUTRITION SITES AND HOME-DELIVERED MEALS

Congregate nutrition sites and home-delivered meals are available in many communities on a donation basis. This is a great way to get help with one of your daily responsibilities and receive a hot, nutritious meal. Questions to ask may include the cost of the meals, how often they are offered, if transportation is available to congregate nutrition sites, and if special diets can be accommodated.

For information on a nutrition site close to you or on home-delivered meals, contact:

HOME CARE SERVICES

Home care agencies provide a variety of services to help people in their homes. Some home care agencies specialize in particular services while others provide a wide range of services. Most agencies charge a fee; volunteer organizations accept donations.

Some county aging units also keep lists of private individuals who provide home-care services in their county. It is up to the family to screen any private individual they hire, and to ensure that state and federal tax law is being adhered to. Note that anyone who hires a private individual as a home care worker on a regular or frequent basis may become an employer under the law and be responsible for paying unemployment insurance and social security/Medicare taxes to the government on the worker's behalf.

Using home care services can help to extend the period of time a loved one can be successfully cared for at home by supplying needed supplemental help and preserving the health and energy of the family caregiver.

- Types of Home Care Services

Chore services typically include light housekeeping, laundry, meal preparation and shopping.

Companion care (respite) typically includes oversight/companionship for the person with memory loss so that his or her primary caregivers can take time off from caregiving to keep appointments, attend events, catch up on chores, sleep, or simply enjoy a break. Companion care can be provided in a variety of settings, but is usually provided in the residence of the person receiving care. Companion care can often be combined with chore service and/or personal care assistance. Companions might also take people on outings, enabling them to attend events, volunteer, and visit favorite people and places.

Personal care services typically include assistance with dressing, bathing, grooming, meals and toileting, as needed.

Home health care is provided by nurses, certified nursing assistants or professional therapists and includes medication management, skilled nursing services, bathing, and occupational, physical, and speech therapies. Depending on the situation, the caregiver might be able to take a break from caregiving while home health care is being provided.

A live-in caregiver provides 24 hour/day assistance in the home. Services include personal care, home chores, companionship and oversight of the person in need of care. Some people hire someone they know to live in the home. Others look for live-in caregivers through the local university or by placing an advertisement. Some companion care and home health agencies can provide 24 hour/day shift care.

Hospice care: Hospice services are available to individuals at the end of life. Services usually can be provided in the home or in a facility. Some agencies have free-standing hospice in-patient facilities. Hospice provides nursing care, respite, and grief support for families.

ADULT DAY SERVICES

Adult day programs provide structured support for the older person and are another way for a caregiver to obtain respite from caregiving responsibilities. Some programs are dementia specific. Participants engage in a variety of pastimes, including exercise, music, social activities, and meals. Costs vary. Individuals who meet eligibility requirements may qualify for financial support or sliding fee scales. For more information, contact:

FACILITY RESPITE

Respite at residential care facilities may be arranged during the day, for an overnight visit, or multiple day stays. This type of respite is helpful for caregivers who need a longer break to take a vacation or attend to other responsibilities. Please contact individual facilities more details on available respite services at residential facilities.

RESIDENTIAL CARE

There are a variety of facilities including residential care apartment complexes, adult family homes, community-based residential facilities and skilled nursing facilities available to meet the different levels of care that may be needed by a person with dementia. When the time comes for someone to move to a care facility, it can be very difficult for both the person and the family. In addition, finding the right setting to meet the needs of the person with dementia can be both challenging and time consuming.

The Alzheimer's & Dementia Alliance has a handout available, "Residential Care: A Guide for Choosing a New Home" that offers tips and examples of questions to ask as you search for a care facility. Call 608-232-3400 or 1-888-308-6251 for your free copy.

- Residential Care Apartment Complex (RCAC)
A residential care apartment complex is an apartment that includes a kitchen, living area, bedroom, private bathroom and an array of services including meals, housekeeping, laundry, arranging medical appointments and transportation. RCACs may provide up to 28 hours per week of personal care and/or nursing services. These facilities are most appropriate for a person with dementia who is in the very early stages, who can make their own decisions regarding care options, and who can live independently with minimal assistance, or for the person with dementia and his or her spouse together. These facilities are registered by the Wisconsin Department of Health & Family Services.

- Adult Family Homes (AFH)

Adult Family Homes also combine housing and care. Adult Family Homes provide assistance and/or supervision with activities of daily living to four or fewer individuals. No more than 7 hours per week of nursing care can be given in an AFH. These facilities are licensed by the Wisconsin Department of Health & Family Services.

- Community Based Residential Facilities (CBRF)

A CBRF is a place where 5 or more individuals live and receive care with 24-hour supervision. These facilities offer private or semi-private bedrooms with shared living and dining areas. Services include meals, snacks, activities, and assistance or supervision with activities of daily living. No more than 3 hours per week of nursing care can be provided in a CBRF setting. CBRFs are generally smaller than skilled nursing facilities. CBRFs are licensed by the Wisconsin Department of Health & Family Services. When considering a move to a CBRF, it is necessary to inquire about a CBRF pre-admission assessment to insure that you have information on all care options. Contact the Dane County Department of Human Services Long Term Support Unit at 608-261-9887 for more information.

- Nursing Homes

Nursing homes are facilities that offer skilled nursing care and other services including: 3 meals per day, snacks, activities, assistance with activities of daily living, and dietician and social work services. They are most appropriate for frail individuals who have medical or nursing care needs. Some nursing homes have special care units designed to address the special needs of people with dementia.

For a listing of Adult Family Homes, Community Based Residential Facilities, or Nursing Homes in Dane County, contact the Alzheimer's & Dementia Alliance: 608-232-3400 or 1-888-308-6251

LONG TERM CARE OMBUDSMAN

An ombudsman protects and promotes the rights of long-term care consumers and Community Options Program participants by working with them and their families to achieve quality care. The program is provided at no charge. Ombudsmen can investigate complaints and help families resolve problems with long-term care service providers.
