Housing Mediation (Dane County)

Mediation is a voluntary process in which people with a disagreement meet together with a trained, impartial mediator. The mediator listens to both sides and can help guide the parties towards a mutually agreeable resolution, including stipulations to prevent eviction.

The Housing Mediation Service provides a low-cost alternative to court for the resolution of rental housing-related disputes. This program also provides eviction mediation services before and during small claims eviction court hearings in Dane County. For more information see the Mediation For Housing Problems brochure, or call: (608) 257-2799.

Funded in part by the Associated Students of Madison. ASM does not necessarily endorse the beliefs or actions of this organization.

Finding Help

The Help Desk maintains information on community resources that may be able to provide eviction prevention funds, security deposit funds, and other resources. For more information, see our brochure titled Eviction Prevention and Security Deposit Assistance in Dane County.

Help Desk staff can also help clients fill out the housing applications that we have available. We can sometimes find assistance or answer difficult questions by brainstorming with others in the community.

Help Desk clients may be interested in a referral to one the many agencies, faith groups, community groups, nonprofit groups, and individuals that provide assistance.

Rental Rights & Responsibilities

TRC's Housing Help Desk counselors are available by phone or walk-in to answer questions about rental rights and responsibilities. Appointments are not necessary. Counselors can provide copies of housing laws and regulations, both locally and statewide. We can also help with rental problems by providing practical advice and sample letters and by making referrals to helpful agencies and organizations. The Help Desk is a good resource for questions about housing issues including:

- Eviction process
